Together, we can cool the planet!

This is an urgent message. The climate crisis is a decisive battle between life and death. We are not only fighting for the future of the planet, but for the survival of the millions of small farmers, indigenous peoples and workers who have been left behind in this modern society. We are warning the world that the earth's ecological balance is at risk, that the world's climate is changing rapidly and that we are facing an environmental crisis. We want to make clear that this is not just a scientific or technical problem, but a moral and political one. We need to act now to change the course of history and prevent a global catastrophe.

We need to take action to protect the environment and build a sustainable future. We need to support the farmers who are struggling to feed the world and to protect the right of all people to access clean water, food and healthcare. We need to fight against the powerful interests that are responsible for the climate crisis and to demand the transition to a sustainable and just society. We need to come together and fight for a better world.

The struggle for food sovereignty is part of the struggle for human rights. We are fighting for the right of all people to have access to food, water and healthcare, to live in dignity and to have a say in the decisions that affect our lives. We are fighting for a world where all people have the opportunity to live in peace and prosperity, and where the rights of all people are respected and protected.

We need to support the movement for food sovereignty and to show our solidarity with the millions of people who are fighting for their right to food. We need to demand the end of the global food system that is responsible for the climate crisis and that is destroying the planet. We need to come together and fight for a world where all people have the right to food and where the planet is protected for future generations.
